Connecting Tomorrow's Women Leaders

Celebrate the power of building connections at the 7th Annual National Girlfriends Networking Day ("NGN Day") on June 4th

MISSION STATEMENT

To engage college and young professional women in building and expanding their networks of connections with both colleagues and mentors.

HOW IT WORKS

A panel featuring renowned, diverse women leaders discussing their personal experiences with taking risks and building connections will be streamed to 50+ events, around the country, hosted by corporations and women entrepreneurs. During the hour long event (12-1 pm ET), thousands of women will tune in and interact with the panel, then network with others.

GOALS

- Encourage tens of thousands of women nationwide to recognize the importance of building their network, either by attending a hosted event or by connecting one-on-one.
- Host 50+ interactive events in major cities across the country which provide women with an opportunity to network in a collegial, enjoyable atmosphere.
- Enable corporations to participate by engaging their employees,
- Educate the public about the necessity of women building their network of connections through media releases, articles and video content.
- Establish the connections necessary for women to advance into leadership.
- Encourage women to stay engaged and provide concrete steps to promote change that we want to see for women in our country via monthly Red Tent meet-ups (www.thenewagenda.net/redtent)
